OTO1 EXCLUSIVE - GHOST MYSTERY EDITION

GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT - PREMIUM PROMPT VAULT

The Unquiet Archive

100 substantial, ready-to-use prompts.

Five case files. One complete creative toolkit.

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot - Official Prompt Vault
Quintana Marketing - For the purchaser's own projects

How to Use The Unquiet Archive

This vault contains exactly 100 full-book starter prompts made for the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Every prompt supplies a different creative foundation, enters the bot's normal guided workflow, respects its approval points, and then directs it to write the complete paranormal mystery in finished prose chapter by chapter. None of the numbered prompts ends with a concept, dossier, profile, twist list, outline, or publishing asset.

1 - Open your bot

Launch the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot in ChatGPT and begin a new project or reopen the chat for your current book.

2 - Establish your project

Give the bot your pen name and book direction. If you already have a Story Bible or Series Continuity Handoff, paste or upload it before using a prompt.

3 - Choose the right starting lens

Story Concepts begin with a case seed, Haunted Settings with a location, Investigators with a lead character, Twists and Reveals with the final payoff, and Publishing Assets with the reader promise. Every route still produces a complete book.

4 - Paste the full prompt

Copy the complete prompt, not only its title. Add any known project details, then follow the bot's normal setup questions and approve the Story Bible or other checkpoint when you are satisfied.

5 - Continue chapter by chapter

After approval, let the bot draft the real manuscript. When a response ends, continue with the next planned chapter until the final chapter and aftermath are written. Do not treat an outline as completion.

6 - Review and revise

Read each chapter, request changes where needed, and keep accepted details in the bot's continuity record so later chapters do not contradict established canon.

Important: review and personalize all AI-assisted material. Verify current platform settings, policies, category choices, URLs, and any factual claims before publication. The prompts deliberately tell the bot not to invent research, rankings, reviews, earnings, or account-specific information.

Case File Index

CASE FILE I - Story Concepts - Prompts 001-020

Seed-led commands that take an original paranormal premise through the bot's full workflow into a completed chapter-by-chapter book.

CASE FILE II - Haunted Settings - Prompts 021-040

Location-led commands that build the entire mystery around a haunted place and continue through the finished manuscript.

CASE FILE III - Investigators - Prompts 041-060

Character-led commands that turn a distinctive investigator into the protagonist of a complete chapter-by-chapter novel.

CASE FILE IV - Twists and Reveals - Prompts 061-080

Payoff-led commands that work backward from a fair reveal and then write the whole mystery from Chapter 1 to resolution.

CASE FILE V - Publishing Assets - Prompts 081-100

Positioning-led commands that shape an honest reader promise, produce the full book, and only then create the matching asset.

Quick routing

Choose the kind of foundation you want—premise, place, protagonist, reveal, or reader promise. Whichever case file you select, its prompt starts a new full-book workflow and proceeds into chapter-by-chapter prose after the bot's normal approval checkpoint.

CASE FILE I

Story Concepts

Seed-led commands that take an original paranormal premise through the bot's full workflow into a completed chapter-by-chapter book.

PROMPTS 001-020

PROMPT 001 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Funeral Guest Who Never Arrived

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: At a rain-soaked funeral, the guest book contains a signature from a witness who vanished thirty years ago, and every mourner remembers seeing that person in a different seat.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around identity, collective memory, and a family secret that changes the meaning of the burial.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 002 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Choir Beneath Blackwater Chapel

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: A closed chapel begins broadcasting a choir through disconnected speakers, but one voice is naming locations connected to an unsolved disappearance.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around sound-based clues, a religious community divided by guilt, and a haunting with rules that can be tested.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 003 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Lanterns of Saltglass Point

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: Unlit lanterns along a storm-battered headland flare whenever a local tells a lie about the shipwreck that founded the town.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around coastal isolation, inherited loyalty, and a mystery that separates folklore from deliberate concealment.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 004 / STORY CONCEPTS

Every Thirteenth Tenant

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: The registry of an old apartment building lists a thirteenth tenant on every floor even though no such flats exist, and rent receipts keep appearing in the superintendent's locked office.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around architectural impossibility, tenant secrets, and a spirit whose objective is more precise than revenge.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 005 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Cold Room at Briar House

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: A sealed room in a restored manor drops below freezing only when someone touches an object that belonged to the missing housekeeper.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around object-linked manifestations, class resentment, and a clue sequence that makes the final answer fair.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 006 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Widow's Borrowed Shadow

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: A recent widow notices her shadow acting out a second version of her husband's final evening, one that contradicts her sworn account.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around grief, unreliable memory, and a supernatural witness that communicates only through repeated physical action.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 007 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Train That Stops for the Dead

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: A late-night commuter train makes an unscheduled stop at a demolished platform where one passenger always boards and leaves an item from a cold case.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around transit-system suspense, an investigator trapped by the timetable, and a haunting that escalates through evidence rather than attacks.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 008 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Orchard of Unburied Names

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: Names appear overnight in the bark of an abandoned orchard, each matching someone officially recorded as having left the county alive.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around rural history, missing-person records, and a land-based haunting with an emotional cost for the investigator.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 009 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Portrait That Forgets a Face

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: A family portrait loses one painted face after every attempt to identify the person standing at the edge of the canvas.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around visual clues, manipulated genealogy, and a reveal that explains both the altered painting and the family's silence.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 010 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Bellringer's Last Confession

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: A church bell rings a coded pattern at the exact time its deceased bellringer used to meet a secret informant.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around pattern decoding, old civic corruption, and a ghost whose incomplete testimony can be misunderstood.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 011 / STORY CONCEPTS

Room Nine Is Still Occupied

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: A roadside motel has no Room Nine, yet its switchboard receives nightly calls from that extension asking whether a missing child has come home.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around contained-location tension, conflicting timelines, and a compassionate answer behind an unsettling repeated message.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 012 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Drowned Town Broadcast

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: During drought, a radio picks up weather reports from a town submerged beneath a reservoir, followed by details of a death never entered in official records.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around broadcast clues, public works history, and two generations with different reasons to preserve the official story.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 013 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Medium's Silent Client

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: A professional medium is hired by a client who never speaks, then discovers the client died before the appointment was booked.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around ethical mediumship, identity verification, and a mystery that does not rely on convenient all-knowing spirits.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 014 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Ashes in the Snow Globe

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: A souvenir snow globe recreates the interior of a burned boarding house, and its tiny figures change position whenever new evidence is found.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around miniature visual evidence, arson history, and a suspect list tied to what the model chooses not to show.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 015 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Children of Hollow Lane

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: Adults who grew up on the same lane begin hearing a playground counting rhyme that includes the name of a child none of them admits knowing.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around shared childhood memory, social pressure, and clues that distinguish supernatural influence from mutual denial.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 016 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Lighthouse Keeper's Second Log

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: A newly digitized lighthouse log contains entries in the dead keeper's handwriting describing ships that vanished years after his death.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around documentary clues, maritime atmosphere, and a haunting whose apparent prophecy masks a solvable human pattern.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 017 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Seance at Mercy Hall

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: A charity seance produces five accurate messages and one impossible accusation, leaving the investigator to determine which spirit - or living participant - planted it.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around closed-circle suspects, seance mechanics, and a twist that preserves both paranormal reality and fair-play detection.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 018 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Ghost in the Evidence Archive

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: A police evidence archivist finds sealed boxes rearranged into a trail toward a case everyone believes was solved.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around procedural detail, institutional resistance, and a spirit limited to moving objects already held as evidence.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 019 / STORY CONCEPTS

The House That Testifies

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: During a contested inheritance, an old house reenacts a different version of the owner's final night in each room.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around room-by-room testimony, competing heirs, and physical manifestations that must be interpreted rather than trusted blindly.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 020 / STORY CONCEPTS

The Last Exorcist of Bellwether County

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the case seed below to start and complete a full paranormal ghost mystery book through your complete guided book-creation workflow. This is a manuscript-production command, not a request for ideas, a concept brief, or an outline as the final product.

CASE SEED: A retired exorcist is asked to clear a farmhouse, but every ritual exposes a new clue suggesting the haunting began with a crime the exorcist helped conceal.
STORY EMPHASIS: Build the mystery around moral accountability, ritual rules, and a resolution that solves the mystery without reducing the spirit to a monster.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [tone], [target reader], [standalone or series], [time period], [heat/violence boundaries], and [anything that must or must not appear]. Treat blanks according to your normal workflow and ask only the questions or approvals you genuinely require to build the book.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Interpret this seed as the fixed creative starting point. During your normal setup, establish the investigator, haunting limits, victim, human crime, suspects, clue trail, red herrings, emotional stakes, ending, and chapter progression. Show me the Story Bible or other checkpoint your workflow normally requires and pause only at the approval gates built into that workflow. Do not offer multiple concepts and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required setup is approved, write the actual novel in polished prose chapter by chapter, beginning with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter and resolution. Work across as many responses as necessary. At the end of each response, state the next chapter to be written and continue when prompted; never substitute summaries for unwritten chapters. Maintain an internal continuity record after every chapter so names, chronology, evidence, paranormal rules, character knowledge, injuries, objects, and unresolved threads remain consistent.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Every chapter must advance investigation, character pressure, or supernatural escalation; clues must be visible before their payoff; the ghost cannot simply announce the solution; the culprit, motive, and method must be resolved on the page; and the final chapters must deliver both mystery closure and emotional aftermath. The endpoint is a finished, chapter-by-chapter manuscript ready for the user's revision—not a plan for a future manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

CASE FILE II

Haunted Settings

Location-led commands that build the entire mystery around a haunted place and continue through the finished manuscript.

PROMPTS 021-040

PROMPT 021 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

The Tide-Locked Hotel

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a once-luxurious coastal hotel reachable only at low tide.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: salt-stained guest ledgers, sealed service corridors, and a ballroom that echoes before storms.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 022 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

Platform Zero

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: an abandoned underground platform omitted from modern transit maps.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: dead signal lights, tiled acoustics, maintenance passages, and trains heard but never seen.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 023 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

The Velvet Mourning Theatre

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a restored Edwardian theatre with a reputation for fatal opening nights.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: fly lofts, dressing-room mirrors, trapdoors, costume storage, and audience sightlines.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 024 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

White Pine Hospice

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a snowbound former hospice being converted into a retreat center.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: sealed patient rooms, generator failures, medication records, and footprints that stop at walls.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 025 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

The Cemetery Glasshouse

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a neglected greenhouse built against the wall of a Victorian cemetery.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: night-blooming plants, family plots, irrigation channels, and roots disturbing hidden objects.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 026 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

Morrow Light

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a lighthouse on an island evacuated after a keeper's unexplained death.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: fog signals, lens rotations, keeper quarters, sea caves, and a supply boat with limited access.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 027 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

The Museum's Closed Wing

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a municipal museum wing sealed after a curator disappeared during an exhibit installation.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: motion sensors, mislabeled artifacts, conservation labs, freight elevators, and donor records.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 028 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

Station WRAI After Midnight

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a rural radio station that continues broadcasting after its staff evacuates.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: soundproof booths, reel archives, transmitter fields, caller logs, and dead-air intervals.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 029 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

The Fire Lookout Above Ash Creek

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a remote mountain fire lookout where a former ranger still radios warnings.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: sightlines, weather logs, burn scars, access roads, and blind valleys.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 030 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

The Last Ferry Home

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: an overnight ferry crossing a fogbound channel on the anniversary of a passenger's disappearance.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: vehicle decks, locked cabins, engine vibration, manifests, and restricted crew routes.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 031 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

The Courtroom Below the Courthouse

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a forgotten courtroom uncovered beneath an active county courthouse.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: sealed transcripts, prisoner tunnels, judges' chambers, acoustic vents, and modern security zones.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 032 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

The Archive That Breathes

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a university archive built around the private library of a disgraced spiritualist.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: compact shelving, climate controls, marginalia, restricted boxes, and paper that reacts to breath.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 033 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

Saint Orra's Mining Town

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a nearly abandoned mining town where lamps reappear deep inside a condemned shaft.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: company housing, union records, ventilation maps, spoil heaps, and a church built over a sinkhole.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 034 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

Mercy & Sons Funeral Home

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a family funeral home with preparation rooms from three eras.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: viewing parlors, a dumbwaiter, cremation records, condolence books, and a private apartment above the chapel.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 035 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

Holloway School at Dusk

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a derelict rural school awaiting demolition.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: class photographs, a sealed basement classroom, playground sightlines, chalk dust, and changing attendance registers.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 036 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

Rookwood Manor's Servant Stair

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: an occupied manor whose narrow servant stair connects rooms absent from the floor plan.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: bell pulls, hidden landings, soot marks, household accounts, and sound traveling between walls.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 037 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

The Canal Village Without Reflections

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a quiet canal village where certain houses never reflect in the water.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: towpaths, lock gates, boat schedules, waterside cellars, and a drowned boundary marker.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 038 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

The Observatory of Unfinished Stars

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a hilltop observatory closed after an astronomer vanished during a meteor shower.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: rotating domes, photographic plates, red-light corridors, instrument logs, and a narrow service gantry.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 039 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

Alder Tower

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a high-rise apartment block scheduled for renovation after decades of unexplained falls.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: elevator records, refuse chutes, roof access, intercom faults, and identical corridors that distort orientation.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 040 / HAUNTED SETTINGS

The Inn at Soldier's Rest

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the haunted location below as the fixed foundation for a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel and take the project through your full guided workflow into chapter-by-chapter manuscript production. Do not stop after creating a setting description, map, dossier, or plot outline.

HAUNTED LOCATION: a roadside inn built beside a forgotten battlefield and used by reenactors each autumn.
REQUIRED PLACE DETAILS: buried earthworks, guest-room histories, replica weapons, cellar foundations, and conflicting memorial plaques.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [region or country], [time period], [season], [tone], [investigator preference], [standalone or series], and [content boundaries]. If an essential choice is missing, handle it at the appropriate question or approval point in your normal book-building process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Make the location generate the case. Its layout, public history, concealed event, present-day occupants, access limits, ordinary hazards, haunting boundary, and sensory changes must create suspects, clues, jeopardy, and scene movement. Establish these facts inside the Story Bible stage of your workflow, along with the investigator, ghost, human crime, culprit, motive, clue order, and ending. Present the normal pre-drafting checkpoint for approval, but do not treat that material as the deliverable.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once the workflow's required setup is approved, start with Chapter 1 and write the entire book in finished prose chapter by chapter—from the investigator's arrival or first disturbance through the final chapter, solved crime, supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. Continue across responses until no planned chapter remains. Never replace later chapters with a synopsis. After each chapter, preserve a continuity record for geography, entrances, travel time, weather, room contents, evidence location, character knowledge, haunting behavior, and unresolved questions.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Revisit the location with changing meaning rather than repetitive wandering; keep the physical layout consistent; distinguish ordinary danger from paranormal activity; place fair clues in scenes; let the climax use established geography; and conclude both the human mystery and the ghost's unfinished need. The final output must be a complete chapter-by-chapter novel, not a standalone setting asset.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

CASE FILE III

Investigators

Character-led commands that turn a distinctive investigator into the protagonist of a complete chapter-by-chapter novel.

PROMPTS 041-060

PROMPT 041 / INVESTIGATORS

The Forensic Photographer Who Distrusts Ghosts

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a meticulous forensic photographer whose camera captures details she cannot see.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: visual discipline.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: she once altered a family photo to spare someone pain and has never admitted it.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 042 / INVESTIGATORS

The Disgraced Folklorist

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a folklorist dismissed for authenticating a famous hoax.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: pattern recognition across oral histories.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: his need to restore his name tempts him to believe evidence too quickly.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 043 / INVESTIGATORS

The Grief Counselor Who Hears Final Questions

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a grief counselor who hears one unfinished question from some deceased clients.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: empathetic interviewing.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: she fears using private therapy disclosures as investigative clues.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 044 / INVESTIGATORS

The Retired Detective and the Unidentified Victim

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a retired detective followed by the ghost of an unidentified victim from his only unsolved case.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: procedural memory.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: the ghost appears helpful but repeatedly steers him away from one witness.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 045 / INVESTIGATORS

The Ethical Urban Explorer

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: an urban explorer who documents abandoned places without revealing locations.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: spatial observation and access planning.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: a past video accidentally exposed a vulnerable person and destroyed their privacy.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 046 / INVESTIGATORS

The Municipal Archivist

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a municipal archivist who notices official records changing after midnight.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: document provenance.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: her family benefited from the historical decision being erased.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 047 / INVESTIGATORS

The Child Psychologist

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a child psychologist evaluating siblings who describe the same dead imaginary friend.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: developmentally sensitive questioning.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: she must avoid leading children while adults demand a quick paranormal explanation.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 048 / INVESTIGATORS

The Mortician Who Recognizes the Wrong Dead

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a mortician who recognizes a newly arrived body as someone buried years earlier.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: anatomical detail and calm under pressure.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: his family's funeral home handled the original burial.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 049 / INVESTIGATORS

The Code Enforcement Officer

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a code enforcement officer inspecting a condemned house that keeps repairing one forbidden room.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: building systems and regulations.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: she approved an earlier renovation that may have concealed evidence.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 050 / INVESTIGATORS

The Night-Shift Paramedic

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a paramedic who receives emergency calls from addresses removed from the dispatch system.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: rapid scene assessment.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: one call repeats the night he chose the wrong patient to treat first.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 051 / INVESTIGATORS

The Conservation Architect

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: an architect restoring historic buildings who can hear changes made without permits.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: materials analysis.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: her celebrated mentor may have hidden a crime inside a restoration.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 052 / INVESTIGATORS

The Responsible True-Crime Host

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a true-crime host trying to solve a haunting without turning victims into entertainment.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: public-source research and audience tips.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: a previous episode caused harassment of an innocent suspect.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 053 / INVESTIGATORS

The Priest Who Lost His Certainty

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a priest asked to assess a haunting after privately losing his faith.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: ritual knowledge and pastoral trust.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: he is tempted to overstate certainty because the community needs reassurance.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 054 / INVESTIGATORS

The Forensic Genealogist

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a genealogist tracing an heir whose family tree includes a person who died twice.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: records correlation and DNA literacy.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: a discovery could invalidate her own inheritance.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 055 / INVESTIGATORS

The National Park Ranger

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a park ranger tracking apparitions along a closed trail.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: terrain reading and incident response.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: she ignored an earlier missing-person report she thought was a prank.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 056 / INVESTIGATORS

The Disaster Investigator

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: an investigator who studies structural failures and is assigned to a building that collapses differently in every witness account.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: cause-and-effect reconstruction.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: his professional identity depends on material explanations.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 057 / INVESTIGATORS

The Locksmith of Unopenable Doors

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a locksmith called to doors that are locked from both sides.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: mechanical reasoning and trace evidence.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: his late father designed the master-key system connected to the first death.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 058 / INVESTIGATORS

The Audio Restorer

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: an audio-restoration specialist cleaning a damaged interview that contains responses to questions never recorded.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: waveform analysis and careful listening.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: her own voice appears in a decades-old tape.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 059 / INVESTIGATORS

The Hospice Nurse

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a hospice nurse who notices unrelated patients describing the same waiting room.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: clinical observation and compassionate presence.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: she must investigate without exploiting people at the end of life.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 060 / INVESTIGATORS

The Museum Registrar

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the investigator foundation below to create and write a complete paranormal ghost mystery book through your full guided workflow. This character must lead an entire finished manuscript; do not stop after a profile, audition scene, character arc, or series plan.

LEAD FOUNDATION: a museum registrar tracking an artifact that appears in collections where no transfer was recorded.
PRACTICAL ADVANTAGE: chain-of-custody discipline.
PRIVATE PRESSURE: the object is tied to a donor whose patronage saved the museum.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [character gender or leave open], [age range], [setting preference], [tone], [standalone or series], [starting level of paranormal belief], and [content boundaries]. Preserve any canon I paste and resolve missing essentials only through the normal workflow questions.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Build the case around situations that make this investigator's professional skill useful and their private pressure costly. During setup, establish the haunted location, victim, ghost, crime, suspects, evidence, false leads, personal stakes, midpoint failure, final choice, and ending. Use your normal Story Bible and approval sequence. Character development is preparation for the manuscript, not the endpoint.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After the required checkpoint is approved, draft the whole novel chapter by chapter as full scenes, starting with Chapter 1 and continuing through the final chapter. Use as many responses as needed and continue sequentially when prompted. Do not jump from an early chapter to an ending summary. After each chapter, update continuity for the investigator's knowledge, emotional state, relationships, injuries, possessions, promises, discovered clues, active theories, and the ghost's demonstrated limits.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: The investigator must test evidence, make errors, revise theories, question witnesses, and earn the solution. Their personal arc must change choices in the case without overwhelming the mystery. The ghost may guide or obstruct but cannot provide an effortless answer. Resolve the crime, the haunting, and the protagonist's central emotional question in finished prose. The final deliverable is the complete chapter-by-chapter book.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

CASE FILE IV

Twists and Reveals

Payoff-led commands that work backward from a fair reveal and then write the whole mystery from Chapter 1 to resolution.

PROMPTS 061-080

PROMPT 061 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Ghost Is Protecting the Prime Suspect

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: The apparent avenging spirit repeatedly prevents the investigator from confronting the person with the clearest motive.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must reframe each intervention as protection without erasing the suspect's lesser wrongdoing.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 062 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Haunting Is a Reenactment, Not a Threat

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: Terrifying manifestations repeat the same route and gestures but never harm anyone.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must show that the spirit is reconstructing a witnessed crime and needs the investigator to notice one altered detail.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 063 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Victim Was Misidentified

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: Every clue fits the official victim until a personal object behaves as if it belongs to someone else.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must build a fair identity reversal using records, relationships, and ghostly limits rather than a last-minute twin.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 064 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

Two Spirits Want Opposite Outcomes

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: The investigator assumes one inconsistent ghost is communicating badly.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must reveal two spirits with distinct rules, motives, and clue signatures while keeping their identities inferable.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 065 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Fraud Is Real - And So Is the Ghost

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: A living suspect is exposed faking part of the haunting for profit.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must use the exposure as a midpoint reversal that clarifies which manifestations remain genuinely unexplained.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 066 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Testimony Arrives Out of Order

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: A spirit communicates scenes from one night in fragments that appear chronological but are not.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must create an ordering key embedded in weather, objects, or sound so readers can solve the timeline.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 067 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Recorded Time of Death Is the Trap

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: The case depends on a time of death everyone treats as certain.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must plant layered evidence that the supernatural event marked discovery, not death, changing the suspect window fairly.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 068 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Investigator Removed the Crucial Clue

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: The investigator unknowingly took an object from the scene years before the haunting began.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must make the buried memory psychologically credible and ensure earlier behavior foreshadows the reveal.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 069 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Cursed Object Is a Decoy

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: Every manifestation follows a notorious object with a violent history.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must reveal that the object attracts attention while the actual haunting is anchored to an overlooked ordinary item.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 070 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Building Is the Witness

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: Witnesses report no visible ghost, only doors, pipes, lights, and walls behaving strangely.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must turn the property's systems into a coherent testimony whose sequence points to a concealed crime.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 071 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Spirit Appears Only During Lies

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: An apparition manifests whenever someone speaks falsely, leading everyone to treat it as a truth detector.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must add a limitation involving belief, omission, or wording that creates both clues and dangerous misreadings.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 072 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Local Legend Was Manufactured

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: A famous ghost legend predates the current crime and seems to predict it exactly.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must show how a living culprit shaped the legend while preserving an older, genuine spirit with a different story.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 073 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Exorcism Releases the Wrong Presence

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: A ritual appears to end the haunting, then subtler events become worse.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must foreshadow that one spirit had been containing another and make the investigator responsible for repairing the mistake.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 074 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Accusing Ghost Has Been Manipulated

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: A spirit repeatedly identifies one living person as the killer.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must explain how a second party fed the spirit false context or staged evidence without making the ghost omniscient.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 075 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Voluntary Disappearance Became a Murder

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: Evidence proves the missing person originally planned to vanish, seemingly ending the investigation.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must use the plan as cover for a later crime and distinguish the voluntary trail from the fatal interruption.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 076 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Apparition Is a Future Victim

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: The investigator assumes a ghost belongs to an old unsolved case.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must build rules that allow a limited warning from a death not yet committed without turning the story into unrestricted time travel.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 077 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Red Herring Is Emotionally True

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: A suspect's lie has nothing to do with the murder but mirrors the victim's hidden fear.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must resolve the false lead cleanly while letting it unlock motive, theme, or the investigator's personal arc.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 078 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Memorial Conceals the Crime

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: A beloved public memorial is treated as proof the town honored the dead.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must reveal its placement, inscription, or materials as a deliberate attempt to bury evidence in plain sight.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 079 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Family Curse Is a Human Pattern

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: Generations of deaths appear to confirm a supernatural family curse.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must separate genuine haunting from a repeatable human choice or institution that keeps recreating the tragedy.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 080 / TWISTS AND REVEALS

The Final Reveal Requires Mercy

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the reveal foundation below to build backward and then write a complete paranormal ghost mystery novel through your entire guided workflow. The reveal must shape the whole manuscript; do not stop after a twist explanation, clue list, logic audit, or climax outline.

REVEAL FOUNDATION: The investigator can expose the full truth, but doing so would punish an innocent survivor more than the guilty party.
REQUIRED PAYOFF: The final explanation must design a solution that preserves factual clarity while forcing an earned moral choice and satisfying aftermath.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [investigator preference], [setting], [tone], [standalone or series], [ending mood], [existing canon], and [content boundaries]. If I provide only the reveal foundation, create the remaining case elements inside your normal guided process.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: Work backward from the required payoff to establish a fair culprit, motive, method, victim, ghost objective, communication limit, mistaken assumption, suspect set, clue order, red herrings, failed theory, confrontation, and aftermath. Build these into the Story Bible and chapter progression at the normal approval stage. Pause where your workflow requires approval, but do not mistake the approved plan for completion.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: After approval, start with Chapter 1 and write every chapter in polished prose from the opening disturbance through the investigation, final chapter, and resolution. Continue chapter by chapter over as many responses as necessary. Each response must advance the actual manuscript, identify the next chapter, and preserve a continuity record of who knows what, when each clue appears, which theory is active, what the ghost has demonstrated, and which promises remain unresolved. Never skip unwritten chapters by summarizing them.

MANUSCRIPT REQUIREMENTS: Seed the true answer early, make red herrings arise from believable conduct, avoid an unforeshadowed twin, dream solution, arbitrary new power, or last-page culprit, and let physical and testimonial evidence confirm the reveal. Finish with solved human wrongdoing, a coherent supernatural resolution, and emotional aftermath. The endpoint must be the complete chapter-by-chapter manuscript.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

CASE FILE V

Publishing Assets

Positioning-led commands that shape an honest reader promise, produce the full book, and only then create the matching asset.

PROMPTS 081-100

PROMPT 081 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

The 30-Title Evidence Board

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Create 30 title candidates in six distinct tonal families: atmospheric, clue-led, location-led, character-led, high-concept, and series-friendly.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: For each, identify the promise it makes, the likely reader expectation, and any risk of sounding like horror, romance, or cozy mystery when that is not the book. End with a ranked top five and explain the ranking from the manuscript details only.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 082 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Series Name and Book Naming System

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Design 12 series-name options and three repeatable book-title patterns for my Ghost Mystery project.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Show how each pattern would work across the first five books, keep individual titles distinct, and flag words or structures that could become repetitive. Do not claim market demand; base the recommendation on tone, investigator, setting, and series engine.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 083 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

One-Sentence Positioning Hook

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Write 20 one-sentence positioning hooks for the book, each under 30 words.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Vary the emphasis among the investigator, haunting rule, central clue, emotional stake, and location. Label any hook that implies a fact not established in my Story Bible, then recommend the three most accurate and distinctive options.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 084 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Amazon Description - Atmospheric Version

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Draft a polished Amazon book description built around atmosphere and mystery rather than plot summary.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Use a sharp opening line, two escalating paragraphs, a clearly stated reader promise, and a closing invitation. Avoid spoilers, unverified bestseller language, income claims, and vague phrases such as 'nothing is as it seems' unless made specific.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 085 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Amazon Description - Investigation-First Version

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Draft a second Amazon description that leads with the investigator's problem and the solvable case.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Include the inciting clue, the cost of failure, the haunting rule, and one complication. Keep the final reveal concealed. Then compare this version with an atmosphere-first approach and say which better matches the manuscript.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 086 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Seven Search-Phrase Candidates

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Generate seven specific keyword-phrase candidates based only on the book's actual setting, investigator type, supernatural element, tone, and mystery structure.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: For each phrase, cite the story detail that supports it and flag any phrase that would misrepresent the book. Do not claim search volume, ranking difficulty, or sales potential without verified data supplied by me.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 087 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Category Fit Conversation

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Translate the manuscript's content into a category-fit brief I can compare with the current category choices visible in my KDP dashboard.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: List primary genre signals, secondary genre signals, exclusions, and likely reader expectations. Do not invent current category names or codes. Ask me to paste the live options before recommending a final selection.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 088 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Pen Name Persona

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Create five credible pen-name persona directions for a Ghost Mystery author brand.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: For each, provide a naming style, a two-sentence brand promise, visual mood, reader-facing tone, and boundaries that prevent invented credentials or a fabricated personal history. Recommend one based on the planned catalogue.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 089 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Author Bio Without Fictional Credentials

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Write three author-bio lengths - 50, 100, and 180 words - using only facts I provide.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: If facts are missing, use clearly marked placeholders instead of inventing awards, locations, professions, or personal experiences. Let the voice signal a fascination with mystery, place, memory, and the unexplained without pretending paranormal claims are verified.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 090 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Front-Cover Creative Brief

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Turn the Story Bible into a front-cover creative brief for a designer or image generator.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Specify focal image, environment, lighting, palette, depth, symbolic clue, genre cues, negative space for title and author, and elements to avoid. Provide three visual directions and explain which best signals ghost mystery rather than generic horror.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 091 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Image-Generation Prompt for Cover Art

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Write three image-generation prompts for cover art only, with no rendered title text.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Each must specify composition, camera viewpoint, lighting, atmosphere, period accuracy where relevant, and clean negative space. Add a negative prompt that excludes gore, illegible text, extra limbs, clutter, logos, and misleading genre imagery.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 092 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Cover Typography and Thumbnail Plan

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Create a practical typography-overlay plan for the chosen cover concept.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Recommend title hierarchy, author-name placement, series marker, contrast treatment, safe margins, and a thumbnail legibility test. Do not name paid fonts unless I confirm licensing; describe the typographic qualities needed and offer broadly available alternatives.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 093 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Reader Magnet Case File

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Design a reader magnet that naturally connects to this book or series without spoiling the main mystery.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Provide the format, premise, ideal length range as a flexible planning estimate, value to the reader, continuity connection, opt-in promise, and a five-part outline. Include a clear boundary between bonus fiction and claims of a true paranormal account.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 094 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Launch Hook Bank

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Create 25 promotional hooks grouped into curiosity, atmosphere, character, clue, and series promise.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Every hook must be traceable to the manuscript and usable as ad copy, email subject inspiration, or social captions. Flag spoilers and remove unsupported claims about reviews, rankings, urgency, or reader reactions.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 095 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Seven-Day Social Teaser Sequence

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Plan a seven-day pre-release social sequence using only confirmed book details and available assets.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: For each day, give the post goal, visual idea, caption draft, spoiler boundary, and call to action. Vary formats rather than repeating the blurb, and do not invent testimonials, countdown dates, pricing, or platform availability.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 096 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Back-Matter Next-Step Page

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Draft a concise back-matter page that thanks the reader and guides them to the most appropriate next step.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Provide versions for a standalone book, Book 1 in a series, and a reader-magnet invitation. Use placeholders for links I have not verified, avoid manipulative review language, and keep the tone consistent with the final scene.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 097 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Trope and Reader-Promise Audit

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Audit the Story Bible and manuscript summary for the promises a Ghost Mystery reader is likely to infer.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Separate confirmed tropes, implied tropes, absent tropes, and potentially misleading signals. Identify mismatches among title, cover, description, opening chapters, and ending, then recommend precise repairs without forcing the book into a different genre.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 098 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Book Metadata Case Sheet

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Build a one-page metadata case sheet I can use during publication setup.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Include final title, series information, author name, edition, description status, seven keyword candidates, live category choices to verify, cover status, manuscript word count, ISBN decision field, pricing field, territorial notes, and outstanding checks. Leave unknown or volatile items blank rather than guessing.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 099 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Series Continuity Handoff

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Create a reusable Series Continuity Handoff from my completed book.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Organize established canon, character states, relationships, location rules, haunting rules, solved facts, public beliefs, private truths, unresolved threads, sequel seeds, and a strict 'do not contradict' list. Distinguish facts on the page from possibilities that remain optional.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

PROMPT 100 / PUBLISHING ASSETS

Pre-Publication Integrity Review

COPY INTO THE GHOST MYSTERY ROYALTIES BOT

Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot, use the publishing direction below as a production-and-positioning target for a brand-new paranormal ghost mystery, then carry that book through your full guided workflow and write the complete manuscript chapter by chapter. The publishing work may shape the reader promise or final quality checks where relevant, but it must never replace the novel.

POSITIONING DIRECTION: Run a final integrity and reader-expectation review before I publish.
ASSET STANDARD TO HONOR: Check internal names, timeline, clue fairness, paranormal rules, final-reveal logic, unresolved threads, title-cover-blurb alignment, placeholder text, generated-image lettering, and claims that require verification. Return a severity-ranked fix list and a clean release checklist; do not certify legal or platform compliance.
MY INPUTS: [pen name or ask me], [target book length], [series name or standalone], [investigator preference], [setting], [ghostly element], [tone], [target reader], [verified platform facts if relevant], and [content boundaries]. If these are blank, gather only what your normal book workflow requires before drafting.

BOOK-PRODUCTION INSTRUCTIONS: First separate what this direction can honestly influence before drafting from what must wait for the finished manuscript. Use only relevant implications—such as tone, reader promise, series identity, visual motif, or integrity standard—to establish the premise, investigator, haunted setting, ghost, victim, crime, suspects, clue trail, emotional stakes, chapter progression, and ending. Do not force metadata or promotional copy into the plot. At the normal Story Bible or outline checkpoint, show how the book will support the direction and request the approval your workflow ordinarily needs. Do not produce the publishing asset and stop.

COMPLETE BOOK DELIVERABLE: Once approved, write the actual book in polished prose from Chapter 1 through the final chapter, continuing sequentially across responses until the manuscript is complete. Do not replace chapters with summaries. Keep a live continuity record of canon, chronology, evidence, supernatural rules, character knowledge, emotional progression, and unresolved threads. Each installment should state what chapter comes next so production continues cleanly.

FINALIZATION: Only after the complete manuscript exists, create or refresh the specified publishing asset from the finished text, using placeholders for unverified facts and never inventing reviews, rankings, credentials, platform rules, prices, dates, or URLs. The primary endpoint remains a finished chapter-by-chapter ghost mystery novel, followed by the manuscript-grounded asset as a practical final step.

FULL-BOOK STARTER: Paste everything under the green label into the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Complete useful bracketed fields, follow its normal approval gates, and continue the chat until every planned chapter has been written.

End of Case File

You now have 100 distinct ways to start and produce a complete Ghost Mystery book with the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. Each route begins from a different creative foundation, passes through the bot's guided setup, and continues into finished prose until the final chapter is complete.

Quintana Marketing

This prompt vault is designed for use with the Ghost Mystery Royalties Bot. It is not affiliated with, endorsed by, or sponsored by Amazon or OpenAI. No publishing or income result is promised. You remain responsible for reviewing, editing, fact-checking, and ensuring the originality and suitability of every book you publish.